Hiram Johnson, former Clatsop County Commissioner, who was instrumental in preserving the Lindgren Cabin.

In This Issue ...

The Seeborg name is one that many area people know. The parents, Victor and Fanny had fifteen children of which thirteen survived to adulthood. Each child had the security of knowing that when help was needed, family members stepped in to provide it. And when the community at large needed someone to step in, the Seeborg family came up with the solutions. Larry Seeborg, a grandson of Victor and Fanny's, has written a two-part story with biographies of each child. The second half will appear in the following issue.

The Angora Club is approaching its one hundredth year of its founding by planning a series of hikes to some of the most exciting spots to visit while wearing hiking boots. Have you seen Saddle Mountain from the top, or Neahkahnie Mountain? You have an opportunity now to make those climbs. Arlene LaMear has provided a history of the club for Cumtux readers.

Dr. Greg Jacobs has written the good news that funding has been received for work on the Lindgren cabin and that it will be open for visitors at the Cullaby Lake Park in the future. Dr. Jacobs describes the house as a "marvel of forest carpentering."
